Letter of recommendation

Dear Admissions Committee,

I'm happy to recommend Mauritz for your Master's program.

As the CEO and Founder of Blixt Editor, I worked closely with Mauritz in our fast-paced startup environment. From the start, he showed strong initiative and took real ownership of his work. He didn't need detailed instructions. He saw what needed to be done and made it happen.

Mauritz led our outbound outreach to Web3 and creator projects. He personally reached out, booked meetings, and helped turn several conversations into valuable partnerships.

He also contributed to our positioning and messaging on X, focusing on making content more engaging and viral. His ideas helped improve our campaigns and get better results with our audience.

What impressed me most was how he combined analytical thinking with creativity. He quickly understood what content performed well and why, and he adapted fast in our changing startup environment. He also communicated naturally with potential users and partners and built good relationships easily.

Working at Blixt gave Mauritz hands-on experience in a real startup. He learned how to stay structured and consistent while moving quickly and taking full responsibility for his tasks. These qualities will serve him well in your program and in any future entrepreneurial path.

I'm confident Mauritz will be a great addition to your Master's cohort. He brings practical experience, energy, and a smart balance of creativity and execution. He will contribute a lot and do well academically and beyond.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions.

Best regards,

Name: Jack Haldorsson
